“While sales of both single-family homes and condos dipped compared to the previous year, the increase in prices year-over-year for both indicates the housing market is still very strong,” said Kalama Kim, 2016 president of the Honolulu Board of REALTORS®. “The drop in condo sales is typical of the cyclical nature of the real estate market. Historically, we’ve seen a peak in condo resales during the summer, followed by a slight dip the following month. As for prices, a decrease in the number of sales with a corresponding increase in prices usually means buyers are being more aggressive with their offers. That said, home affordability is more favorable than a decade ago because of extremely low mortgage interest rates.”

The public is encouraged to visit www.hicentral.com to see what’s happening in the housing market. Consumers have the ability to browse Oahu single-family home and condominium listings, available for sale and for rent, and to see a comprehensive guide of homes that will be open to visit this Sunday. All searches can be done by geographic location, price range or both, and hicentral.com provides useful information about buying and selling real estate in Hawaii.
